EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

The application has been amended as follows:

In claim 18, line 2, the term "the random numbers" has been changed to "the random number sequence" to correct the antecedent basis of "the random numbers". The change of "the random number sequence" is supported in line 6 of the precedent claim 7.

2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: Reinhardt relates to a method and apparatus for reducing the introduction of alias frequencies in the processing of signals and Walsh et al. relates to generating random numbers using an oscillator having a variable output frequency. However, one of the prior art show, suggest or teach a true random number generator comprising: a jitter performance tester configured to exercise a transceiver with predetermined data and pre-configured to stress the operability of the transceiver for increasing an error probability of the transceiver; and an extraction circuit to obtain a random number sequence based on differences between the data resolved by the transceiver and the predetermined data, wherein the extraction circuit comprises a sampler to sample at least a portion of an output of the jitter performance tester. Or a method of generating a random number, comprising: comparing first data to reference data and determining differences there between; counting the differences determined; sampling at least a portion of the counting over a duration; and defining the random number based on the sampling over the duration, wherein the first data is related to the reference data with an error probability.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
